

‘Issues in CME Propagation’

Angelos Vourlidas

ABSTRACT

We have learned a great deal about the properties of CMEs from the multi-point observations from the STEREO and SOHO missions over the last seven years. However, the details of the propagation of CMEs in the inner heliosphere still elude us, preventing progress in Space Weather forecasting.

In this talk, I highlight the main issues and discuss possible strategies for making progress on this subject